THE LEGISLATURE

In Committee of the Whole, bills respecting revenue and expenditure, and the better auditing of the public accounts of the Territories were advanced a stage.

The consideration of the bill to amend the Station Ordinance gave rise to discussion on the following clause to repeal Sec. 1 of Chap. 15 of the Revised Ordinances, 1888, that "No stallion of one year old or upwards shall be permitted to run at large within the Territories except in Stock Districts." Some hon. members thought stallions should not be allowed to run at large at all, as they did considerable damage. On the other hand it was argued that it was absolute necessary to allow stallions to run at large at certain times. The compulsory keeping them up would entail great expense upon the owners. The section was agreed to as proposed and progress on the bill was reported.

Other bills were advanced.

The House went into committee on the bill respecting the veterinary profession.

On motion of Mr. Ross the fee for certificates to practice veterinary surgery in the Territories was fixed at $5 to be issued to practitioners holding diplomas.

Mr. Mowat objected to granting certificates to persons who had been in active practice for only twelve months prior to the passing of the bill. He moved that the term be fixed at two years.

Mr. Pearson said no man should have a certificate unless he held a diploma. If a man had sufficient knowledge to command a practice such a man would have no difficulty in passing an examination.

Mr. Insinger (the mover of the bill) explained that what the disputed clause meant was people who had obtained a living by exercising the profession for a year.

Mr. Mowat suggested the appointment of a board of examiners to examine those who had not obtained diplomas, the expense to be defrayed by the examinees.

Mr. Reid proposed that the clause read "a man who has been in active practice for two years and attended a course of lectures on veterinary sur-

"Above the average," is the verdict on the September issue of the Canadian Magazine. Our national writers seem to have surpassed themselves, and no patriotic citizen, who wishes to keep pace with the culture and thought of our best people, can neglect this charming issue. O. A. Howland, in reviewing Mr. Hopkins' "Life of Sir John Thompson," sets the author right on one or two points, and also adds some very bright remarks of his own concerning this lamented statesman's career. To criticize our financial and banking systems would according to custom, be fool's work. Yet a banker ventures to do it by showing that Canada's weakness lies in her lack of "Cash Reserves." "The Financial Incidents of War," is an article which opens up a new line of thought for Canadian politicians and statesmen. A. C. Galt has written a most startling-to peaceful citizens-article. W. L. Edmonds and E. Dowley contribute good fiction. Three well illustrated articles brighten the issue, while lengthy book reviews by well known critics, a few poems, and several pages by the Editor complete this excellent and instructive number.

On Monday morning our old time merchant, Mr. J. O. Davis and Miss Tessier, formerly of France were married at the residence of the bride's father at St. Louis de Langevin. A number of guests went out from the town and a large number were present from the surrounding country. The bride was attired in white crepon, and looked charming. After the marriage ceremony was concluded the guests sat down to a most sumptuous wedding breakfast, at the conclusion of which and after the usual toasts had been made and responded, Mayor Davis called for three cheers for the Queen, which were heartily given. The party then repaired to the residence of the bride's father where the merry dance was set going, and was kept up for several hours. Mr. Davis and his handsome bride will take up their residence in town shortly and to them we accord our hearty congratulations.

Every business man ought to read "Dollars and Sense," a money making book by Nathaniel C. Fowler, Jr., the leading expert on business and advertising. 18 chapters illustrated with 100 plates, presenting every style of effective advertising, with examples of reading notices, circulars and headlines. It tells the plain truth about advertisements and exposes ineffective methods. Any reader of THE TIMES who will send check, postal note or postage stamps to the value of twenty-five cents to the Trade Company, Boston, Mass. will receive the book by prepaid mail.

LITTLE BOOKS.—Cotton Mather said that since he had given away many little books God had given to him many great books. Great books have their value, but little books are far more important for common use; and while students may need the great books, the people need the little ones. Busy men and women have no time for long stories. All the books of the Bible, as written, were little books. Thousands of people who cannot read large volumes would gladly read brief pointed tracts and pamphlets. Persons interested in scattering "small books on great subjects," will do well to examine the different numbers of the Anti-Influenza Library, published by H. L. Hastings, 47 Cornhill, Boston. Most of them are 5 or 10 cents pamphlets, in readable type, but so packed with facts that they contain as much information as one would often find in a book costing a dollar. The circulation of some of these publications has been enormous, nearly sixty tons of a single one of these little tracts having been printed. We do not often see "third million" on the title of any publication, but persons who are curious can find it by sending five cents to H. L. Hastings, Boston, Mass., for a copy of the pamphlet "Will the Old Book Stand?" or by sending twenty-five cents for an assorted package of Anti-Influenza tracts.
